Description Wireguard is a fast, simple, and secure VPN for your home or office network. WireGuard is faster and more secure than OpenVPN and easy to set up. WireGuard is supported by modern routers running the dd-wrt, Tomato and OpenWRT firmware, as well as the NetBSD and FreeBSD kernels. Install¶ WireGuard can be run as a kernel module on Linux systems, both as an in-kernel implementation (using DPDK) or as a daemon, that is, running in userspace using the kernel's builtin VPN stack. Installing the WireGuard source is not necessary. Just copy the files from the zip file into your kernel modules directory (either /lib/modules// or /lib/firmware/) and execute the modprobe command to load the module: `$ modprobe wireguard` $ (Only if the module couldn't be loaded for some reason.) This will start the wireguard service on port 1808. If you want, you can use the systemctl utility to start/stop the wireguard service: `$ sudo systemctl start wireguard` `$ sudo systemctl stop wireguard` $ (Only if the service couldn't be started/stopped for some reason.)

FreeBSD¶ wg1.zip: FreeBSD Source Code Available There is no need to recompile the kernel or any other packages for WireGuard on FreeBSD. Just copy the files from the zip file into /usr/local/etc/rc.d/ and the system will start wireguard automatically on boot: `$ cp wg*.sh /usr/local/etc/rc.d/wireguard.sh && chmod +x /usr/local/etc/rc.d/wireguard.sh` $ (Only if the modules couldn't be loaded for some reason.)

OpenWRT¶ Download and install the latest OpenWRT firmware: [nintendo] # download firmware from openwrt.org # unzip the package on your home directory # cp [firmware]/[blobname]/[image] /tmp # if the file was extracted without
